Friday, March 12. 1708.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 16.

Naples, February 21.

THE Countess of Taun, Wife of our Viceroy, arriv'd in this City on Thursday last in the Evening, with her Daughter of 9 Years old. She was receiv'd some Leagues from hence by the Marquis de Lofrano, who went to meet her with several Coaches and 6 Horses, in which were the chief Ladies of the Court. On her Arrival she was saluted with a Discharge of the Canon of our Castles, as she had been in her Passage by Gaeta and Capua; having in all Places as she came extended her Charity and Liberality to the Poor. The Emperour has sent his Picture enrich'd with Diamonds to the Prince de Montefarchio, in Consideration of his good Services. The Duke of Brazzano is arriv'd here, and has been well receiv'd by the Viceroy. Five Persons are taken into Custody, accus'd of holding Correspondence with the Enemy. The Government have taken Care to have Meal sold constantly in four Places of this City, for the Relief of the People; and the Viceroy omits no Pains nor Diligence to procure Corn from Apulia, to prevent its Scarcity and Dearth. Two Gallies are building here, in the Room of two Gallies that are grown unserviceable. The Prisoners taken in Piombino have been brought hither in a Tartan; and 2 Ships of the Chevalier Pallavicini are arriv'd, to convoy the Transports on which are imbark'd the Troops, Cannon and Ammunition design'd for completing the Reduction of the small Places in Tuscany that are still in the Hands of the Enemy.

Rome, Feb. 25 The Pope assisted at the Chappel held last Wednesday in the Church of St. Sabina, where he distributed the Ashes with the usual Ceremony. All the Lent-Preachers have been admitted to kiss Holiness's Foot. Paul Anthony Gelles, a Neapolitan, being lately committed to the Prison of the Inquisition, for robbing the Church of St. Mary of the Pix and other Pieces of Sacred Plate, having found Means to break Goal, his Picture is sent all over the Country, with Orders to secure him wherever he shall be found. The Duke d' Uzeda Ambassador of Spain, is providing new Succours for the Garrison of Porto-Hercule, which he will send by the Duke of Turfis's Gallies.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Mar. 16.

Venice, March 3. Signior Nicholas Foscarini is elected to go Ambassador to England, to relieve Signior Francis Cornaro. They write from Orbitello, that there had pass'd by there a Tartan from Naples, which had on board a Magnificent Coach, 14 Horses, and divers other Presents, for King Charles at Barcelona: And add, that they expected at Orbitello a Convoy from Naples, to reduce Porto-Longone and Porto Hercule; the latter not having surrendered, as was rumour'd.

Paris, March. 9. The Duke of Alva, Ambassador of Spain, had some Days ago a private Audience of the King; when he earnestly besought his Majesty to let the Duke of Berwick continue in Spain, because of the Confidence the Spanish Troops have in his Bravery and Conduct; but his Majesty answer'd, that 'twas necessary that General should command the Army which is to act against the Duke of Savoy. The Archbishop of Cambray being inform'd of the Disorders committed by the Soldiers of the Garrison of Cambray, for Want of Pay; has given 80000 Livres out of his own Purse to pay that Garrison and keep the Soldiers to their Duty: This generous Action is much applauded at Court.

Hague, March 16. ' There has newly been a Commotion in the Province of Groeninghen, on the following Occasion. Nor long after the Death of the late Prince of Nassau Friesland, the States of Friesland sent a Deputation to those of Groeninghen to perswade them into a Resolution to admit the present Prince to take the accustom'd Oath as their Stadholder, when he should attain the Age of 20 Years. The City of Groeninghen consented to it without any Reservation. The Deputies of the Omelands, (that is to say of those who are possess'd of a certain Tract of Country about Groeninghen, and make the other Part of the States of that Province,) consented to it likewise; yet reserving to themselves the Power, when that Admission should come, to reform the Regulations that bind the Stadholder. The Prince of Nassau being of Age, presented himself some Days ago to those States, desiring to be admitted to take the foresaid Oath. The City of Groeninghen made no Difficulty about it: But the Deputies of the Omelands desir'd the Matter might be delay'd 'till the next Day: The Reason of their demanding that Delay, was, that they might reform the foremention'd Regulations; designing particularly to insert a Clause importing, That the Stadholder should not preside as heretofore in the College of 8 who examine the Full-Powers of the Deputies of the Omelands: Their Motive to that Alteration was, That former Experience had shewn that the Stadholder by his own Credit could cause such of the Deputies as would not be subservient to his Will, to be excluded. They made other Exceptions likewise to the agreeing such an Affair precipitately; but in short they were over-ruled, and all the Deputies found themselves oblig'd to admit the new Stadholder to his Oath, without Restriction. The true Impulse was, That a Number of Boors, not arm'd indeed, but provided with Staves of a perswasive Length and Weight, gather'd about the Place where the Assembly sat, and demanded to know whether the Stadholder had Satisfaction. The next Day no more than three Deputies of the Omelands remain'd with the Assembly; the rest withdrew, protesting against the Violence offer'd them: They have done more, for they have written to the States General, imploring their Protection for maintaining their Rights: They have likewise given out, that they will joyn themselves to the other Provinces who have resolv'd to have no Stadholder.

Deale, March 10. There continue in the Downes, her Majesty's Ships Swallow, Weymouth, Warwick, Glasgow, Valeur.

London, March 12.

Yesterday, very early in the Morning, an Express arriv'd at Court, dispatch'd by Major General Cadogan from Ostend, with an Account that the Enemy's Fleet sail'd from Dunkirk at 3 a Clock on Tuesday Morning.

Before Noon came an Express from Sir George Byng, which left him off Yarmouth, sailing after the French with the utmost Diligence.

About 3 in the Afternoon came another Express, advising that a Dutch Privateer meeting Sir George, told him that he had seen the French Fleet, and reckon'd ours were within 7 Hours Sail of them.

Major General Cadogan, and Lieutenant-General Fagel, are imbarking 10 Battallions of English, and 15 of Dutch, at Ostend; to come with them to England.
